Colored pieces are being moved into place on a table.

An animated paper cutout of a person is pushing a large piece into place.

The pieces have formed the eastern and middle states of the U.S.

The person walks off-screen.

A new paper cutout of a person in a wheelchair enters to the right of the screen.

The paper cutout of a person struggles to push a colored piece that resembles Texas. He sits.

The person in a wheelchair approaches from behind and taps him on the shoulder.

A chain loop is being pulled off screen. [Singing occurs in the background: “Da da da dalalala.”]

The person in the wheelchair pulls the piece of Texas by the chain with the other person pushing from behind.

The two paper cutout people maneuver other colored pieces of states into place, completing the U.S.

The paper cutout people shake hands.

Fade to black.
